

OBITUARIES

Marcia R. (Farley) Sartorelli, 74
Saugus High teacher for 37 years

WEST DENNIS — Marcia R. Farley of Kingston, Ralph and his wife Barbara Farley of New Hampshire and the late Eileen Marino. She is also survived by her nephew Michael Marino.

Service information: Funeral services will be private.

Donations in her memory may be made to the MSPCA Animal Shelter, 157 Falmouth Road, Centerville, MA 02632.

Notes of comfort and sympathy may be made to the family at www.MorrisOConnorBlute.com.

Mrs. Sartorelli was born in Lynn and raised in Saugus, she was the daughter of the late Violet (Young) and George Farley.

She retired after 37 years as a teacher at Saugus High School in 1999.

She was the sister of Linda

Santa makes his way through the crowd.

ITEM PHOTOS / OWEN O'ROURKE

Welcome to Breed

Above, Lindsey Valeri, left, and Chante Williams work behind the counter at the Breed Middle School store during the open house on Thursday. Below, Christopher Ouk was one of the many Breed students who took the time at the open house to make Christmas cards and other items of cheer for residents at the Lynn Shore Rest Home.

Babies celebrate first Christmas in Lynn

More than 60 families with newborns came to Iglesia de Dios on Union Street to celebrate Lynn Community Health Center's 18th annual Baby's First Christmas Party. The party is an opportunity for families to celebrate the holiday season by dining together with LCHC staff, enjoying music and crafts, and receiving gifts for their children.

Santa and Mrs. Claus were in attendance at the event, co-chaired by Stephanie Connolly and Christine Cowden. A group of dedicated "elves" makes sure each family gets a photograph with Santa and a gift. All gifts were donated, as was most of the food. Staff and volunteers raise money cover the remaining costs.

Last year, the Lynn Community Health Center's OB/GYN department delivered 473 babies. Baby's First Christmas is one way for parents to stay connected to their providers, and see the Health Center as a resource for building healthy lives.

One of the health center's youngest patients enjoys the day.

IN MEMORIAM
RYAN M. SCARPONI
 2013 - DECEMBER 13th - 2014
 ON HIS ONE YEAR ANNIVERSARY

It's been a year today since you've earned your wings and now you fly where the angels sing. I still can't believe that you went away never to be seen unless in the spiritual way.

The days are short, the nights are long, the grief still strong, I want you here my precious son but God had other things for you to get done.

I hope you know how missed and loved you are and that your life on earth was too short by far. There are so many things I want to share with you and sometimes I do.

I hope you hear me when I talk, I hope you hear me when I yell, I hope you hear me when I tell. These words may sound corny and a bit untrue, but it's my feelings and grief that spur me to write to you.

As I write this verse the tears come strong because as a Mom I can't release the bond. I wanted to see you grow up to be a man, become a husband and father and so much more. I still want that for you even though I can see you no more.

I've written these words with both pen and mind a least a million times but nothing seems right with these words I pen but I hope you will understand in the end.

One year has gone by and I still can't believe how the time flies, I miss you my son and nothing can be undone, so I will say goodbye until I write again.

Love, Mom

LYNN BRIEF

Health care job fair at NSCC Monday

North Shore Community College will host a health care and human services job and resource fair Monday from 2:30-4:30 p.m. in the McGee Building, 300 Broad St., Lynn. More than 20 local employers are scheduled to attend. Resource tables will be available with more information about NSCC's education pathways, support services and community partnerships.

For more information, contact Lorin Buksa at 978-762-4000, x4413 or at lbuksa@northshore.edu.

OVER 100 CATEGORIES THAT WILL SELL IT FAST!

ITEM CLASSIFIED ADS

781.593.7700 EXT.2

Volunteers Laine Averback, Ruthi Wurth, Christine Cowden, Stephanie Connolly and Mary Manning Ritter put together gift bags for the babies.

The Daily Item

START YOUR SUBSCRIPTION TODAY

781.593.7700 EXT.2